The usually well-guarded gates of Black Diamond Ranch and Country Club opened Thursday for the start of the 74th Annual Men's State Amateur Championship. The club, which is usually private, opened its doors to the state's top amateurs. The course is best known for five holes on the back nine that are carved out of an old mining site. Above, golfers putt around the 17th hole inside the quarry. About 120 golfers from up to 250 miles away are participating in the event that runs through Sunday. Dan Latoria, left, hits out of the rough on the sixth fairway during the opening round of the tournament. For a closer look at Latoria, see Section C.

Black Diamond crafted for event

LECANTO — Tournament officials tried to take all skill levels into account in setting up the golf course at Black Diamond Ranch for Thursday's opening round of the Florida Men's State Amateur Championship.

"We know players in the first round tend to have a case of nerves," Black Diamond head pro David Shimko said. "We set the course up easier (Thursday), but we'll probably have tougher pin placements (Friday) and get progressively tougher throughout the week.

"The course is playing 250-300 yards shorter than normal from the black tees. The age of the field is 14 to 60, and we tried not to set it up to favor anybody."

Black Diamond normally plays 7,159 yards from the back (black) tees. But 7 of 16 black-tee holes were shortened, as were two par-3 holes played from the dark gray tees, meaning that nine of 18 holes were shorter for the tournament.

Lakeland's Guy Hill, playing in his third state amateur, liked the way the course was set up the first day.

"They made it fair," Hill said. "The greens were real speedy, but only a couple of the pin placements were real tough.

"I remember it being a lot longer the previous time I played here, but that day it was real wet. The course is in great condition, and I didn't have a bad lie all day."

Hill finished his round at 2-over-par 74, shooting 37 on both nines. He had eight pars and one bogey on the front side, and three birdies, three pars, two bogeys and a double bogey on the back side.

Crystal River High graduate Steve Pochis was on hand to root for Hill. Pochis also plays for the Miami Hurricanes.

The top score of 67 was turned in by Buddy Alexander, coach of the University of Florida golf team. Crystal River's Bob Bleakley fired a 71.

Black Diamond never had been open to spectators, and people attending the tournament Thursday were pleased with the opportunity to view the Tom Fazio-designed course.

Marion Randall and son Mark Randall traveled up from Brookridge, a mobile home development west of Brooksville. They brought along lawn chairs so they didn't have to be on their feet continuously.

"It's wonderful," Mrs. Randall said. "We were here when they first developed the course (in 1987), and what a change. There weren't any homes here then, as it was just in the building stage.

"My husband saw in the paper where the tournament was going to be open to the public and also read where it was 6½ miles to walk the whole thing, so we brought along chairs. We've been to the 18th, 10th and ninth greens."

Pro shop staffers estimated that more than 200 spectators were in attendance Thursday.

Amateurs get rare glimpse at Diamond

■ Golfers have been daydreaming for months about the Black Diamond Ranch, where the State Amateur starts today.

LECANTO — The mere thought of playing the elite Black Diamond Ranch Golf and Country Club sent shivers through Larry Barousse's golf game, even from 250 miles away.

GOLF A members-only course famous for five holes on the back nine that are carved out of an old mining site, Citrus County's Black Diamond Ranch opens its normally well-guarded gates today through Sunday for the 74th annual Men's State Amateur Championship.

For guys like Barousse, a 39-year-old businessman from West Palm Beach, the state amateur may be a once-in-a-lifetime chance to challenge the quarry holes. They are the trademark of the course selected by Golf Digest as the nation's best new private course when it opened in 1988.

So it's not too hard to understand how Barousse could miss a near-gimme 18-inch putt during qualifying last month in Jupiter, because his head suddenly was filled with visions of the elusive Black Diamond Ranch.

"I had blocked everything out and I played a good round," Barousse said of the qualifying tournament that saw 120 players fight for 17 berths in the state amateur.

"But when I knocked a 40-footer over a little knoll and I left that 18-inch putt, my mind wandered to Black Diamond. I said, 'I'm on my way.'"

The putt missed the hole.

"I still had two holes to go," Barousse said. "I made par and double-bogey to be the first alternate."

But unlike most of the record-number 760 amateurs who attempted to qualify for the 120-player tournament this year, Barousse was on the Black Diamond driving range Wednesday warming up for his practice round.

The facts

■ What: The 74th annual Men's State Amateur Championship.

■ Who: 120 of the state's top amateurs.

■ Where: Black Diamond Ranch Golf and Country Club, Lecanto; located on County Road 491 just north of the intersection with County Road 486.

■ When: Today-Sunday, tee times start at 8 a.m.

■ Format: A 72-hole scratch tournament. The field will be cut after 36 holes to the 60 lowest scores, plus ties.

■ Spectators: Spectators are welcome; there is no admission fee.

"When I got the call and they said there'd been a cancellation, I was elated," Barousse said. "I'd been wanting to come out and play Black Diamond in the state amateur for over a year."

And as most of the players checked in Wednesday for practice rounds, it was obvious that Barousse was not alone in his delight. Normally reserved golfers could be seen sneaking cameras into their golf bags or stocking up on Black Diamond souvenirs — shirts, hats and logo golf balls — all of it proof that "I played Black Diamond."

But while Florida State Golf Association president Cal Korf credits Black Diamond for the record number of entries this year, he said that by Sunday's final round the tournament, not the course, will take top billing.

"This is a great course, there's no question about it, but the state amateur is the state amateur," Korf said. "What I wanted was a great test of golf. Black Diamond is not just beautiful and spectacular. It's a great golf course. There's not a bad hole out there."

Still, the quarry holes — Nos. 13-17 — are guaranteed to make things more interesting.

"On any one of those holes you can shoot any number known to mankind," said two-time state amateur champion Tom Knapp, 44, of West Palm Beach. "It's scary when you're standing on the tee and there's an 80-foot drop-off six feet away."

LECANTO — Buddy Alexander said he couldn't make a putt and James Taylor couldn't make an eagle Friday, but you'd never realize their woes by glancing at the leaderboard of the 74th annual Men's State Amateur Championship.

Alexander, the University of Florida golf coach and 1986 U.S. Amateur champion, shot 1-under-par 71 to go with a 67 Thursday. The St. Petersburg native has a two-stroke lead at 138 midway through the 72-hole tournament at Black Diamond Ranch.

Taylor, the 1989 U.S. Mid-Amateur champion, shot the day's best round, 66, and is alone in second.

"I had 10-footers all day and just didn't make them," said Alexander, who had four birdies and three bogeys in a six-hour round. "I'm just glad it's done."

Taylor managed seven birdies and just one bogey. He missed one eagle opportunity on No. 14, a 529-yard par-5 that is one of five backside quarry holes carved from an old mining site, and squandered another on No. 18.

"It's really reachable if you don't chicken out on your drive," Taylor said of No. 14, where his second shot, a 206-yard 3-iron, missed the pin by just 15 feet.

Taylor left his eagle putt at No. 14 about an inch from the hole, then somehow came up short with his putt on No. 18.

"I just had to breathe on it going down a hill about 12 feet, and believe it or not, it stayed about an inch short," said Taylor, a Palm Beach Gardens resident playing his first State Amateur.

Defending champion Robbie Davis of Lakeland is three shots off the lead at 72-69—141, followed by Sarasota's Jon Whittemore (68-74—142).

The field was trimmed after Friday's round from 120 players to the top 70 plus ties. Seventy-nine players made the cut, including 10 tied at 13-over 157.

Buddy Alexander leads State Amateur tourney

GOLF

LECANTO — The trick to putting your name high on the leaderboard Thursday after one round in the 74th annual Men's State Amateur Championship was to ignore the 100-foot drop-offs on the banks of the quarry holes at Black Diamond Ranch.

Buddy Alexander, men's golf coach at the University of Florida, brought his Gators to practice at Black Diamond nearly 20 times last season. He's seen the quarry holes enough times not to be intimidated by them, helping him to a 5-under-par 67 — including an eagle on the par-5 18th hole — for a one-shot lead after the opening round of the 72-hole tournament.

The 120-player field will be cut to the 70 lowest scores, plus ties, after today's second round. The final two rounds are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

"I've got an advantage here, sure," said Alexander, 38. "I know the course well. That doesn't mean I'm going to win, but I have an advantage."

Over time, he has learned how to handle the infamous quarry holes, five holes on the back nine carved out of an old mining site.

"I'd say respect is a good word," Alexander said. "This is the finest golf course in the state. Not only is it in immaculate condition, but the quarry holes are something very special."

Alexander eagled the 502-yard, par-5 finishing hole at Black Diamond to stay one stroke ahead of Winter Park's David Boesel and Sarasota's Jon Whittemore, both of whom carded 4-under-par 68s. After driving in the left rough, Alexander hit a 4-iron from 211 yards to within 10 feet of the pin, then sank the putt for an eagle.

"The quarry holes didn't bother me that much," said Whittemore, 20, who plays golf for Southern Methodist University. "I was out in Monterrey last week for the NCAA championships, and I was looking over cliffs with 800-foot drop-offs and the waves crashing in."

Six other players were tied at 71: two-time champion Tom Knapp of West Palm Beach, Steve Smyers of Mulberry, Robert Hill of Lakeland, Wyatt Meyer of Tampa, Chris Howell of Winter Garden and Bob Bleakley of Crystal River.

Four more came in at even-par-72, five strokes off the lead.

Latoria endures long day as State Amateur opens

■ Tournament coverage, 3C
By TIM BUCKLEY

LECANTO — It took Dan Latoria about 6 hours and 15 minutes to play a round of golf Thursday, but that was not the figure that bothered him the most.

The 9-over-par 81 was what left the Springstead High graduate dejected after the opening round of the 74th annual Men's State Amateur Championship, at Black Diamond Ranch Golf and Country Club.

GOLF

It was a round Latoria thought might never end. "Especially," he said, "the way I was playing."

Latoria teed off about 10 a.m. Thursday, and all went well for the first two holes on the 7,159-yard layout that Golf Digest selected as the nation's best new private course when it opened, in 1988.

"Then I hit a bad shot into the woods on No. 3," he said, "and had to pitch out backward."

Latoria made a double-bogey 4 there and carded another double on No. 4, after an errant shot bounced off the cart path.

About three hours after he teed off, Latoria made the turn at 7-over 43. After pulling his cart to the tee box at No. 14, Latoria had plenty of time to think about regrouping.

"We waited 45 minutes on the 14th tee," he said. "(The wait) actually probably helped, because I was getting so aggravated out there."

The delay indeed paid off, as Latoria picked up the only birdie of his round on the par-5 hole, one of the famed backside quarry holes.

"I knew I had to shoot low to be in contention," he said, "so I figured I better get it on or things could get worse. I could have shot 90 out there."

But he didn't, shooting 2-over 38 on the back and carding an 81 that left him with hope of making the cut when the field is trimmed from 120 players to 60 (plus ties) after today's second round.

University of Florida golf coach Buddy Alexander shot 5-under-par 67 to take a 1-stroke lead in the four-round tourney, which concludes Sunday.

Latoria was well back in the pack, but the scoreboard was full of rounds in the 80s. Latoria shot 75 to qualify for the prestigious tourney.

The 1990 Springstead graduate spent this past school year at Brevard Community College, in Cocoa. He averaged about 74 strokes per round for Brevard program but was unable to land a place in a five-person starting lineup that included four returnees. Brevard won its sixth national junior-college championship this season, but Latoria lost out to Orlando's Trey Sones in his bid for the No. 5 position on the team.

Sones shot 77 Thursday. Another Brevard teammate, Mark Baggarty of Rockledge, shot 76.

"It didn't get me down, because I was playing well at the time, but he (Sones) was playing better, more consistently, and he deserved to go," said Latoria, who plans to return to Brevard next season.

Just a little more than a year has passed since the Times named Latoria the North Suncoast Boys Golfer of the Year.

As a senior in high school, Latoria averaged 37 strokes per nine-hole round in regular-season play and shot a 3-over-par 75 to win the Gulf Coast Conference championship at the Links of Lake Bernadette, in Zephyrhills.

Later in the spring of 1990, Latoria was runner-up in the District 5 tournament, at Connell Lake Golf and Country Club, in Inverness. That showing helped the Eagles win the tourney's team title, allowing them to make their first state-tournament appearance.

Latoria made a more-than-respectable showing at that state tourney, shooting 77-76—153 at Misty Creek Golf Club, in Sarasota, to place seventh individually.

Playing in the high school state tourney was exciting then, but Latoria said the level of play hardly compares to that of the State Amateur.

"You play the same way — you try your best — but you know it takes a lot better score to win," he said. "The competition, of course, is much better. You shoot a number like that (81) and you expect to be way back."

Alexander builds 2-shot advantage in State Amateur

LECANTO — Buddy Alexander found the pin placements challenging, but held on to a two-stroke lead Friday at the midway point of the Florida

Men's State Amateur Golf Championship at Black Diamond Ranch.

"I had a lot of tough putts today," Alexander said after a second-round 1-under-par 71. "They did a good job with the pin settings. They were tesy, but fair."

Alexander, the University of Florida men's golf coach, had a 36-hole score of 6-under 138.

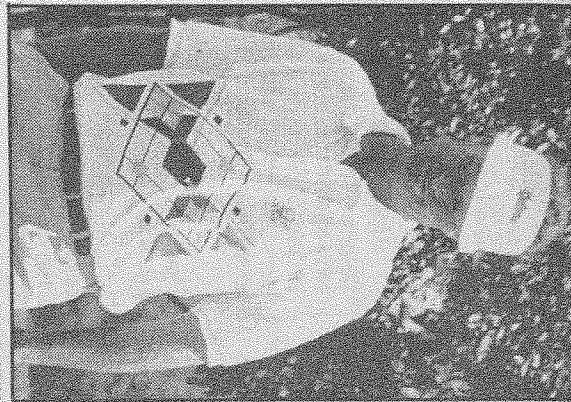

James Taylor of Palm Beach Gardens moved into second place after a 66 for a 140 total. His seven-birdie, one-bogey effort was the lowest round so far in the tournament. Defending champion Robbie Davis of Lakeland moved into contention with a 69. He was three strokes back at 141.

Then came Jon Whittemore of Sarasota at 74—142, David Boesel of Winter Park at 75—143 and former Tampa resident Doug Lacrose, who now lives in Orlando, at 69—143.

Whittemore and Boesel, who trailed Alexander by a stroke after the first round, both courted disaster at the 16th hole. Both had quadruple bogeys on the par-4, 400-yard quarry hole.

The cut came at 13-over 157. The 120-player field was cut to 79 for the tournament's last two rounds today and Sunday.

the round.

"I was putting wonderfully yesterday [Thursday]," said Alexander, who opened with a 67. "I was 10 feet [from the hole] all day and they wouldn't fall."

His four birdie putts were all under 5 feet. They almost were negated by three bogeys.

"The bogeys on No. 5 and No. 9 were mistakes," said Alexander, a former U.S. Amateur champion. "I made an error in judgment on the clubs I used in both cases."

"I'm glad it's done. It's ridiculous, a six-hour round. It's unfortunate."

The slow play didn't bother Taylor, the 1989 U.S. Mid-Amateur champion.

He made up five strokes on Alexander by using only 31 putts.

Taylor's putting almost erased the memory of his opening round.

"It was an awful pretty 74," he said. "I had some of the worst lies Thursday that I just couldn't recover from."

Tougher course greets golfers at state tourney

■ New pin placements greeted players who had cruised around the Black Diamond course in first-round play.

LECANTO — Tougher pin placements greeted golfers Friday in the second round of the 74th annual Florida Men's State Amateur Championship at Black Diamond Ranch.

GOLF

"We made some hole locations more difficult (Friday)," Florida State Golf Association executive director Cal Korf said. "This is cut day, and we want the best shot-makers to stay here for the weekend."

Nine golfers broke par (72) the first day when the stroke average for the field was 76.992. There were nine eagles Thursday, including one each for Gainesville's David Alexander and Winter Park's David Boesel, who were running 1-2 after round one.

The tougher pin placements didn't seem to faze anyone. Eight golfers had sub-par rounds Friday, led by the 66 of Palm Beach Gardens' James Taylor.

Crystal River's Bob Bleakley added a 77 to his first-round 71 for a 148 score. Spring Hill's Daniel Latoria had a 76 Friday and just made the cut at 157.

■ Sophomore-to-be misses cut, but gains experience

Winter Gardens' Ryan Dillon failed to make the cut in the tournament. But the 14-year-old sophomore-to-be at West Orange High School won't soon forget playing in his first State Amateur.

"It was good experience," Dillon said. "I learned about how to think and not get emotional or mad, and even though I played badly I had fun."

Dillon shot 86 Thursday and 82 Friday for a 168 total under tournament pressure. He carded a 78 Wednesday in a practice round.

A golfer for three years, Dillon said the fact there was a qualifier at his home course led him to try to get in to the tournament.

Boesel hopes to hit into tournament double play

Winter Park's David Boesel won the Florida Mid-Amateur Championship in 1988 at Black Diamond, and is hoping to add the Men's Amateur Championship to his list of credits.

Boesel turned in a 75 Friday and enters today's third round with a 143 total. That put him five strokes off the pace of leader Buddy Alexander of Gainesville.

"One bad swing (Friday) cost me 4-over-par when I made an 8 on No. 16," Boesel said, "but I played well and I'm not discouraged."

"Five isn't many shots on the last day and we have days left. I was six back holes to go and won in a Pine Meadows at Eustis course. Boesel is a Little League and coming off a long bass son, which cut into his good time. He said Black Diamond good course that allows a liberal off the tee and good second shots."

Whittemore's 2 eagles tie Alexander in Amateur

By BILL WHITE

LECANTO — It is no longer Buddy Alexander's golf tournament at the 74th annual Florida State Men's Amateur Championship at Black Diamond Ranch.

Jon Whittemore's two eagles Saturday on the 6,850-yard course lifted the Sarasota golfer into a first-place tie with the University of Florida men's golf coach.

Alexander led by two strokes entering Saturday's round, then posted a 71. Whittemore's 5-under-par 67 enabled him to match Alexander at 7-under-par 209 going into today's final round of the 72-hole tournament.

The two eagles were a first in a round for the Southern Methodist University junior, but Whittemore also pointed with pride to a round free of bogeys.

"That's only happened a couple of times for me," said Whittemore, the only State Amateur participant to shoot two sub-70 rounds (68 Thursday, 67 Saturday).

Whittemore, trailing Alexander by four strokes, had a rough start when he hooked his tee shot at No. 1 behind a tree.

"I told myself, that's no way to start a round, hitting it in the junk," said Whittemore, who recovered to make par. "I could have lost it right there. But my mental game was the best thing going today for me."

His first eagle came on the par-5, 577-yard fifth hole when he sank a 116-yard pitching wedge on his third shot.

"It went four feet beyond the hole and backed up into the hole," Whittemore said.

Whittemore made the turn at 34, one stroke less than Alexander. A 25-foot birdie putt at No. 13 kept the momentum going.

Whittemore's second eagle came at the par-5, 502-yard 18th hole after his 3-wood second shot of 240 yards found the green. His 32-foot putt traveled over a couple of rises before dropping.

Whittemore picked up three strokes on Alexander on the back side with a 3-under-par 33.

Alexander recorded his third consecutive sub-par round with a 71 that included four birdies.

"It was a ho-hum round today," he said. "I won't say I was putting well today, but when I missed today I was still happy with the way I hit the ball. It could have been a very solid round for me."

14-year-old misses amateur cut

LECANTO — At 14, Ryan Dillon of Winter Garden was the youngest player in this year's Florida Men's State Amateur Championship at Black Diamond Ranch Golf and Country Club.

Dillon is no longer in the tournament after shooting 86-82—168 Friday and missing the 36-hole cut by 12 strokes. But it was an accomplishment making the field in the state's most prestigious amateur golf tournament.

"I really didn't think I would make it to," Black Diamond, Dillon said. "I think being here is great experience."

Dillon discovered playing in the state amateur is not like high school golf, where he averaged 38.3 strokes for nine holes this past season.

"I was very nervous," he said. "I knew everyone else had a lot more experience. I just tried to block that out of my mind. That and just how tough this course is. It didn't work though."

The youngest player ever to make the state amateur field is Lenny Mattiace of Ponte Vedra Beach. Mattiace, who went on to play at the University of South Florida before turning professional, was 12 when he played in the tournament in the late 1970s, Florida State Golf Association Executive Director Cal Korf said.

Dillon, a West Orange High School sophomore, would like to follow in Mattiace's footsteps. But a balky putter slowed his progress at the state amateur.

"I just wasn't putting well," he said. "I had 34 putts in the first round. I went to the putting green [after that round] and spent an hour there."

Dillon knew it would be very difficult to make the cut (top 70 and ties among 120 entries) in the 72-hole event.

"I'll probably have to shoot a 68 to make it," Dillon, a 5-handicapper, said before the second round. "I've LECANTO — During a round in which Jon Whittemore made two eagles Saturday, it seemed appropriate his tee shot on the 16th hole at Black Diamond Ranch took flight and safely cleared the lip of an old lime rock quarry about 200 yards away.

Whittemore settled for a par after leaving a 12-foot birdie putt short, but he wasn't complaining. In Friday's second round of the 74th annual State Men's Amateur Championship, Whittemore scored a disastrous 8 on 16, one of five picturesque back-nine holes carved out of an old mining site.

But the par on 16 Saturday helped him relax for the final two holes, and he sank a 33-foot eagle putt on 18 en route to a 5-under-par 67 and a tie for the third-round lead.

Whittemore, a Southern Methodist University junior from Sarasota, is tied at 7-under-par 209 with University of Florida golf coach Buddy Alexander, who has held at least a share of the lead since the first round of the tournament. Alexander shot his second-straight 71 Saturday after opening with a 67 Thursday.

Third is James Taylor of Palm Beach Gardens, who shot 73 Saturday for 213. Orlando's Doug Lacrosse (71) is fourth at 214. The tournament concludes today with the leaders teeing off at 9:48 a.m. Admission is free.

Whittemore, who shot 68 Thursday and a 74 Friday, also made an eagle on the par-5 fifth hole, when his 116-yard wedge shot rolled into the cup.

Alexander was constantly regrouping during an up-and-down round Saturday. He birdied the first, third and seventh holes and bogeyed the fourth and fifth on the front nine for a 35. He birdied the 14th to go to 2 under, then three-putted on 15 for bogey. He parred the last three holes, including the 18th, where he missed a 12-foot birdie putt.

"This could have been a very good round, but it wasn't," Alexander said. "It really was a very boring round. I didn't make anything happen, and that's disappointing."
